Re: General Electric Mortgage Insurance Corporation
v. Chi Chen aka Chen Hu aka
Civil Action No. 04-11456-RWZ

Dear Lisa:

I am forwarding this letter to you as a follow-up to the status of the above-referenced matter, and relating to a motion for sanctions filed on behalf of my client (Docket No. 41).

I spoke with Jay Johnson relative to my concerns about this matter on February 10, 2006. Specifically, my basis for filing a request for sanctions against Plaintiff's counsel in this case had two separate theories for relief. After the filing of the motion, Judge Zobel denied one of the theories for relief, but indicated that the second theory for relief was still subject to consideration by the Court. Judge Zobel also invited further submission, and my office caused to be filed certain pleadings as further submissions.

The motion for sanctions had been pending for some time, and a recent review of the docket appeared to create some confusion, at least for me. Specifically, the docket appears to indicate that Judge Zobel denied the motion for sanctions in its entirety, although that is not correct. Further, since the motion for sanctions has been pending for some time, I was concerned that the matter may have "slipped through the cracks". However, I wish to call these matters to your attention and to let you know that my client is still interested in pursuing sanctions as requested in our pleading.
